LAW ENFORCEMENT TRAINING

The South Dakota Law Enforcement Standards and Training Commission would like to express sincere thanks to all law enforcement agencies, officers, and telecommunicators who have assisted in making the law enforcement training program successful.

If it had not been for the hours of dedicated service supplied by various law enforcement agencies, officers, and telecommunicators, the training program would not have been a success.

The Commission is also grateful for the confidence given them by the Governor's Office and the South Dakota Legislature.

LAW ENFORCEMENT OFFICERS STANDARDS AND TRAINING ACT

The Law Enforcement Officers Standards and Training Act contained in SDCL 23-3 became effective October 1, 1971. All law enforcement officers were "grandfathered" if they were employed as such on October 1, 1971. The Law Enforcement Officers Standards and Training Commission was created and was given the power to promulgate rules, require submission of reports by law enforcement agencies, establish minimum curriculum, approve training programs, and perform other administrative functions.

The Commission was also given the power to administer grants, establish training programs, reimburse expenses to officers, and set qualifications of law enforcement officers.

The Division of Criminal Investigation was designated to coordinate and administer the law enforcement training program, and to operate the Law Enforcement Training Center which is now known as the Rol Kebach Criminal Justice Center.

COMPLIANCE WITH MINIMUM STANDARDS

All full-time and part-time law enforcement officers and telecommunicators are required to be certified within their first year of employment, including elected officials.

As of October 29, 2004 there are 1,669 law enforcement officers in South Dakota. Of the 1,669 law enforcement officers, 1,592 officers are certified. The 77 officers who are not yet certified are within their first year of employment.

As of October 29, 2004 there are 344 telecommunicators in South Dakota. Of the 344 telecommunicators, 326 are certified. The 18 telecommunicators who are not yet certified are within their first year of employment.

FISCAL YEAR 2004 OVERVIEW

Law Enforcement Training (LET) has been on the move in a lot of significant ways over the last year.

The most significant was the opportunity to work with the Governor's Office and the State Legislature to secure funding and support to build a new Attorney General's Office, Division of Criminal Investigation, Forensic Laboratory, Emergency Operations Center, and Law Enforcement Training Academy. There have been many hours spent, research conducted, and facilities visited to bring our needs and ideas forward through the help of many able architects and designers. It will be truly exciting to join forces with those involved in the State's Division of Emergency Management to provide a facility that can be jointly used to serve the citizens of South Dakota on many fronts with great efficiency. The Law Enforcement Officers and 9-1-1 Telecommunicators will have a top-notch training facility to include new classrooms, dormitory, gym facilities, and indoor firearms range. Ground breaking has been completed and Sioux Falls Construction is leading the charge as our construction manager.

FOR

The legislature also passed legislation, which now enables the Law Enforcement Officers Standards and Training Commission to certify canine teams. This began the process of putting together a canine working group made up of canine handlers, canine trainers, and canine supervisors from across the state. The canine working group has been working with the commission and is coming closer to completion of this project, which will bring unified standards of certification testing to our state. These canine teams will be certified in everything from drug detection, to explosives detection and the tracking and apprehension of suspects. There are approximately 35 state certified officers who presently work with canines.

The 2004 legislature additionally passed into law a provision, which permits the Commission the right to refuse certain applications based in juvenile adjudications and dispositions, and further provides access to certain juvenile adjudications and dispositions. The juvenile crimes for which an application may be refused include drug crimes that would constitute a felony, sex crimes as defined in SDCL 22-22-30, or certain crimes of violence to include robbery, burglary in the 1st or 2nd degree, arson, kidnapping, or crimes in which a dangerous weapon or explosive or destructive device was used.

Art Aplan, Basic Certification Program Training Coordinator, left for Oregon. Law Enforcement Training was able to hire a Pierre Police Officer, Charlie Wharton, as his replacement.

Mr. Wharton brings many talents and different experiences to this position and is now working with his first class of new officers.

The commission approved two more reserve units this last year, with one of them coming on-line. The South Dakota Division of Criminal Investigation began a Reserve unit with nine reserve agents.

Police Traffic Services developed a working partnership with the Office of Highway to provide traffic enforcement courses for South Dakota Law Enforcement Agencies. In the past year, we trained officers to become instructors in Conducting Complete Traffic Stops and in LIDAR. Additional courses were held in Traffic Supervision and Motorcycle Crash Investigation. Law Enforcement Training continued to hold advanced courses in Accident Investigation, Radar Instructor training, and DWI Detection and Apprehension. Another notable addition was to the Basic Twelve Week program in the area of Anti-Bias/Cross Cultural Diversity as it relates to traffic stops. The list of instructors, who teach traffic enforcement at the Academy, was increased throughout the year to provide a wider range of opinions to be shared with students. This also enables the instructors to teach in their local departments.

The Drug Resistance Education (D.A.R.E.) program continues to grow and expand throughout South Dakota. The new ten-week curriculum was instituted for the first time in the 2003-2004 school year. The continuing demand from parents and educators for quality prevention programs keeps driving the D.A.R.E. program to new levels. In 2004, additional summer programs instituted by D.A.R.E. officers have added to the impact on communities. Several agencies are reinstituting the program after a long absence, to include Rosebud Tribal Police, Standing Rock Tribal Law Enforcement and the Aberdeen Police Department.

In 2005, the D.A.R.E. program will continue to train and equip new officers to help educate the youth of South Dakota. Due to retirement, promotion and the every changing roles of Law enforcement in the community, maintaining a cadre of currently certified officers can be a challenge for agencies. The training scheduled for 2005 is one of only 22 nationwide. Several agencies are already requesting slots for officers.

The D.A.R.E. program impact for the year is represented by the following:

- Current active D.A.R.E. Officers 157
- Newly trained officers (3 trained in Jr. High course) 17
- Schools with D.A.R.E. 148
- D.A.R.E. students receiving training 7,037

One application to attend the law enforcement basic course was denied. A total of five students were dismissed/left the law enforcement basic courses. The reasons they withdrew from the sessions were as follows:

- Academic failures 4
- Resigned from department 1

The Law Enforcement Standards and Training Commission had twelve people appear to make requests, or appeal decisions.

One application to attend the 9-1-1 basic course was denied. A total of five students were dismissed from the 9-1-1 basic courses. The reasons the students withdrew from the courses were as follows:

- Academic Failure 4
- Rules Violation 1

GRANT TRAINING

In 1992, the legislature increased the monies provided by LEOTF to training. With the additional money, Law Enforcement Training developed a grant program to help distribute the new training monies equitably. State, county, and local law enforcement, not already receiving monies from liquidated costs, are allowed to apply for the money by defining their training needs in the form of a grant. Specific guidelines and rules establish what the monies can be used for. Each grant application is reviewed by the Standards and Training Commission to ensure that it meets the guidelines. The Commission is also the governing board that approves or rejects the applications. Priority is given to grants targeting the most essential training reaching the largest audience for the most effective cost expenditure.

The following represents a breakdown of the grants awarded in FY 2004.

LAW ENFORCEMENT CODE OF ETHICS

ENFORCEMENT OFFICER, my fundamental duty is to serve the community; to safeguard lives and property; to protect the innocent against deception, the weak against oppression or intimidation, and the peaceful against violence or disorder; and to respect the Constitutional rights of all to liberty, equality, and justice.

I WILL keep my private life unsullied as an example to all and will behave in a manner that does not bring discredit to me or to my agency. I will maintain courageous calm in the face of danger, scorn or ridicule; develop self-restraint; and be constantly mindful of the welfare of others. Honest in thought and deed in both my personal and official life, I will be exemplary in obeying the law and the regulations of my department. Whatever I see or hear of a confidential nature or that is confided to me in my official capacity will be kept ever secret unless revelation is necessary in the performance of my duty.

I WILL never act officiously or permit personal feelings, prejudices, political beliefs, aspirations, animosities or friendships to influence my decisions. With no compromise for crime and with relentless prosecution of criminals, I will enforce the law courteously and appropriately without fear or favor, malice or ill will, never employing unnecessary force or violence and never accepting gratuities.

I RECOGNIZE the badge of my office as a symbol of public faith, and I accept it as a public trust to be held so long as I am true to the ethics of police service. I will never engage in acts of corruption or bribery, nor will I condone such acts by other police officers. I will cooperate with all legally authorized agencies and their representatives in the pursuit of justice.

I KNOW that I alone am responsible for my own standard of professional performance and will take every reasonable opportunity to enhance and improve my level of knowledge and competence. I will constantly strive to achieve these objectives and ideals, dedicating myself before GOD to my chosen profession... law enforcement.
